DEAN'S ADDRESS

Dear BIGSSS Graduates,

You made it! The book is written, discussions are (temporarily) over. You brought down the dragon – and surely in many moments you also had to defeat yourself. Well done! What today may feel like a little eternity had its first day, too: the day you entered BIGSSS; when everything and everybody was new, when there were so many possibilities ahead, but also obstacles, theoretical problems and methodological pitfalls to overcome. Today you have reached the end. But is it an end or rather a transition? From here, something new will happen, no less exciting than our past few years. We are happy for you and very curious to see where your way will lead you. As Dean of BIGSSS, let me greet you and your friends and family and welcome you to the Graduation Day 2018!

Liebe BIGSSS Graduates,

Ihr habt es geschafft! Das Buch ist geschrieben, die Diskussionen sind (vorerst) vorüber. Ihr habt den Drachen besiegt – und wir sind uns sicher, dass Ihr in vielen Momenten auch Euch selbst besiegen musstet. Gut gemacht! Das, was sich heute wie eine kleine Ewigkeit anfühlt, hatte einen ersten Tag: Der Tag, an dem Ihr an die BIGSSS kamt, an dem alles und jede/r neu war, an dem überall Möglichkeiten, aber auch Hindernisse und theoretische oder methodologische Probleme lauerten. Heute habt Ihr es geschafft und das Ende erreicht. Ist es überhaupt ein Ende, oder nicht vielmehr ein Übergang? Von hier aus geschieht wieder etwas Neues, nicht weniger aufregend als die letzten Jahre. Wir freuen uns für Euch und mit Euch und sind sehr gespannt, wohin Euch dieser neue Weg führen wird. Als Dean der BIGSSS heiße ich Euch und Eure FreundInnen und Familien herzlich willkommen zum Graduation Day 2018!

4 BIGSSS

BIGSSS is an internationally renowned interdisciplinary school of doctoral training at the public University of Bremen and the private Jacobs University Bremen gGmbH. The educational concept, combining the scientific strengths of the Bremen social science landscape with an innovative qualification program and supervision strategy, was acknowledged twice by an international board of reviewers in the German Excellence Initiative in 2007 and 2012 respectively. In 2016, BIGSSS acquired a generous COFUND grant in the frame of the European Union's Horizon 2020 Programme for Research and Innovation for its newest PhD program "BIGSSS-departs" (doctoral education in partnerships). The graduate school hosts around 100 international PhD fellows.

Biannually, our graduates – and those on the eve of defending their thesis – are honored for their outstanding scientific achievement and personal endurance during their PhD paths. BIGSSS would like to thank them for their engagement in our graduate school's institutional, academic and social life. On the following pages, you will find more information on these outstanding personalities. At the Graduation Day, they are presented by their co-fellows Anna Wolkenhauer, Janosch Kullenberg, Nora Waitkus, Stephan Dochow, Markus Klingel, and Małgorzata Jakubowska.

ESTHER SOMFALVY

Parliamentary Representation in Non-Democracies. How Parliamentarians Matter in Kazakhstan and the Kyrgyz Republic

Esther Somfalvy studied Political Science at the University of Bremen and, prior to that, European Studies with a focus on Central and Eastern Europe in Passau and Kazan. She joined BIGSSS after working for the OECD Eurasia Competitiveness Programme. In her dissertation, she explores the practices of parliamentary representation in the non-democratic countries of Central Asia. In particular, her research focus is on the question how limited electoral competitiveness affects the relationship between Members of Parliament and their voters. Esther remains committed to politics in the post-Soviet region, working as a researcher at the Institute for Peace Research and Security Policy at the University of Hamburg, serving as an expert for the Central Asian countries.

Esther Somfalvy studierte Ost-Mittel-Europa Studien (B.A.) in Passau und Kazan und Politikwissenschaft (M.A.) in Bremen. Anschließend war sie im Eurasia Competitiveness Programme der OECD tätig, bevor sie an die BIGSSS kam. Im Rahmen ihres Dissertationsprojektes untersuchte sie die Praxis parlamentarischer Repräsentation in den Staaten Zentralasiens. Dabei ging sie der Frage nach, ob und wie sich eingeschränkter Wettbewerb bei Wahlen auf das Tätigkeitsprofil der Abgeordneten sowie auf das Verhältnis zwischen Abgeordneten und ihren Wählern auswirkt. Ihrer Leidenschaft für den postsowjetischen Raum geht sie mittlerweile am Institut für Friedensforschung und Sicherheitspolitik an der Universität Hamburg (IFSH) nach, als wissenschaftliche Mitarbeiterin mit Arbeitsschwerpunkt Zentralasien.

MICHELLE HOLLMAN

The Private Life of Groups: How Internal Organisational Structures Shape Interest Group Agency in the European Union

After completing her studies in Brighton, Bruges and Berlin, Michelle Hollman moved to Bremen in 2013 to discover the capricious weather, the advantages of waterproof trousers for cycling, and the dry sense of humour of Northern Germany. Having conducted field work in Berlin, Brussels, Lisbon, and London and completed research exchanges in Antwerp and Amsterdam, she defended her dissertation with a focus on the internal organisational structures of interest groups in the European Union in 2017.

Nodeems hatt zu Brighton, Bruges a Berlin studéiert hat, ass d'Michelle Hollman 2013 op Bremen geplännert, fir do dat launenhaft Wieder, d'Virdeeler vu Reebóxe beim Vélosfueren an den dréchenen Humor vun Norddäitschland kennen ze léieren. Ier hatt 2017 seng Dokteraat verdedegt huet, huet hatt Feldfuerschung zu Berlin, Bréissel, Lissabon a London duerchgeföhrt an zu Antwerpen an Amsterdam op der Uni geschafft. Seng Dokteraat beschäftegt sech mat der Fro, wéi intern Organisatiounsstrukturen sech op d'Handlungsfäegkeet vun Interessegruppen an der EU auswierken.

CATERINA BONORA

Localizing transitional justice: an opportunity lost for change? Exploring the role of local actors in post-war justice-seeking initiatives in Bosnia and Herzegovina Caterina Bonora joined BIGSSS after graduating in her home country, Italy, and working for two years in international organizations in various countries. In her PhD, she focused on local activist groups seeking justice in the aftermath of the Yugoslav conflicts of the 1990s. In her current position at the University of Bremen (Institute of European Studies), she still pursues her interests in bottom-up activism in the former Yugoslavia, as well as in issues of human rights, transitional justice and gender. She also enjoys teaching a lot and, more in general, making academic knowledge accessible to the broader public.

Caterina Bonora è arrivata a BIGSSS dopo aver concluso i suoi studi in Italia e dopo aver lavorato per due anni in organizzazioni internazionali in vari paesi. Durante il dottorato ha studiato gruppi di attivisti locali che cercano giustizia dopo le guerre Jugoslave degli anni '90. Anche nella sua attuale posizione all'università di Brema (Istituto di Studi Europei), continua a seguire il proprio interesse nell'attivismo dal basso in ex Jugoslavia e più in generale nei diritti umani, nella giustizia transizionale e nelle questioni di genere. Le piace molto insegnare e in generale le interessa la divulgazione del sapere accademico.

When you join a graduate school you are already a grown-up. And yet, during the time at BIGSSS and through the PhD experience I had the opportunity to mature further, as a researcher and a human being.

ALLA LEUKAVETS

Comparative analysis of integration policy in Belarus and Ukraine vis-à-vis the EU and Russia: politics of two-level games

Alla Leukavets was born in Minsk, Belarus where she studied law at the Belarusian State Economics University. After finishing her studies, she pursued an MA programme in Human Rights at the University of Manchester, UK. In 2011 Alla received an ENP scholarship from the European Commission to pursue a further postgraduate programme at the College of Europe (Bruges campus). In addition, she has done several traineeships, inter alia, at the European parliament in Brussels and the UK Parliament in London. Alla's PhD, which she did within Marie-Curie ITN "Post-Soviet Tensions", focused on comparative analysis of integration policy in Belarus and Ukraine in relation to Russia and the EU. Her current research deals with the role of international organisations in regulating frozen conflicts in post-Soviet space.

У 2011 годзе Ала атрымала стыпендыю ад Еўрапейскай камісіі для далейшых даследаванняў ў Каледжы Еўропы (кампус Бруге). Акрамя таго, яна зрабіла некалькі стажыровак, у прыватнасці, у Еўрапейскім парламенце ў Брусселе і ў парламенце Вялікабрытаніі ў Лондане. Доктарская дысертцыя Алы, якую яна зрабіла ў праграме Мары-Кюрэ, засяроджана на параўнальнym аналізе інтэграцыйнай палітыкі ў Беларусі і Украіне ў адносінах да Расіі і ЕС. У цяперашні час яе даследаванне аналізуе ролю міжнародных арганізацый у рэгулюванні замарожаных канфліктў на постсавецкай прасторы.

 I value the multidisciplinary and international community of fellow graduate students and first rate scholars that BIGSSS creates.

Why narratives of history matter:
Serbian and Croatian political discourses on European integration

Clémentine Roth studied English, history and European politics in Paris, Toronto and Strasbourg. In her dissertation, she examined how Serbian and Croatian political actors narrate Europe, the EU and the European integration process and how they make use of history to (de)legitimize certain political options. Before her PhD, she worked as a scientific collaborator at the Franco-German Institute in Ludwigsburg. After working as freelance translator, she will start her new job as project manager for cross-border cooperation at Steinbeis 2i GmbH in May 2018.

Après des études d'anglais, d'histoire et de politique européenne à Paris, Toronto et Strasbourg, Clémentine Roth a travaillé à l'Institut Franco-Allemand de Ludwigsburg en tant que collaboratrice scientifique. Après avoir travaillé comme traductrice indépendante, elle va rejoindre en mai 2018 les équipes de Steinbeis 2i GmbH en tant que responsable de projets pour la coopération transfrontalière.

The Social Structure of Work after Pension
Age in Germany and the United Kingdom

After studying sociology at FU Berlin, Thomas Lux went north to join the Emmy Noether research group of Simone Scherger at the University of Bremen. In this research group, he wrote his thesis on the class specificity of work after pension age in Germany and the UK. Dort schrieb er seine Doktorarbeit zur Klassenspezifität von Erwerbstätigkeit im Rentenalter in Deutschland und Großbritannien. Derzeit arbeitet Thomas als wissenschaftlicher Mitarbeiter an der Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin. Hier forscht er zu Klassendynamiken in der zweiten Lebenshälfte und zum Zusammenhang von Ungleichheit und Rechtspopulismus.

MAURICIO REICHENBACHS

Corporatism is dead, long live corporatism!
The 6 Dimensions of Government-Nonprofit Relationships and why Germany has entered the era of regulated welfare corporatism

Mauricio Reichenbachs wrote his Bachelor Thesis at Jacobs University Bremen on the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) of the European Union and its implications for German agriculture. In contrast, his Master Thesis at the Universiteit Twente, Netherlands focused on supply chain management and preferred customer status in the business context. Eventually, his PhD research analyzed the German welfare state and its still corporatist relationship to the nonprofit sector. Among others, he worked for business consultancies, a bike repair shop and also engaged in the retail of sweets and coffee. Currently, Mauricio tries to improve the public administration of Bremen and to establish himself as a kiosk and bar owner.

Mauricio Reichenbachs schrieb seine Bachelorarbeit an der Jacobs University Bremen zur Gemeinsamen Agrarpolitik (GAP) der Europäischen Union und deren Auswirkungen auf die deutsche Agrarwirtschaft. Demgegenüber fokussierte sich sein Masterarbeit an der Universiteit Twente, Niederlande auf Lieferkettenmanagement und Vorzugskundenstatus im betrieblichen Kontext. Zu guter Letzt analysierte seine Promotionsforschung den deutschen Sozialstaat und dessen immer noch korporatistisches Verhältnis zu den Wohlfahrtsverbänden. Unter anderem arbeitete er für verschiedene Unternehmensberatungen, eine Fahrradwerkstatt und engagierte sich im Süßigkeiten- und Kaffeehandel. Momentan versucht Mauricio die Bremer Verwaltung zu verbessern und sich als Kiosk- und Barbesitzer zu etablieren.

KWAKU ARHIN-SAM

Return Migration, Reintegration and Sense of Belonging: The Case of Skilled Ghanaian Returnees.

Kwaku Arhin-Sam came to Bremen for his PhD after his studies in international social science at Friedensau, near Magdeburg. Originally from Ghana, he wrote his PhD dissertation on how skilled return migrants renegotiate reintegration and sense of belonging in their home countries. As a social scientist, Kwaku is interested in national and international development from the lens of transnational migration and inter/national development. At the moment, he is working as an international development consultant (freelance) near Frankfurt/Main. In the future, he would like to study the links between unsuccessful integration/reintegration, sense of belonging and individual wellbeing of migrants and refugees.

BIGSSS is not a place, it's a feeling and that is how I feel when I think about my time at BIGSSS because of the wonderful lifetime friends and colleagues. ■■

SARAH PERUMALLA FELLOW-ADDRESS

Sarah Perumalla is a BIGSSS fellow of the cohort 2012, who pursued a PhD in Political Science in the Thematic Field A “Global Governance and Regional Integration” at the University of Bremen. Sarah was an active member of the BIGSSS community, lively engaging in various academic and social events at both universities. Her multicultural and multilingual background together with her insightful, approachable and cheerful character, and international outlook made her a great addition to BIGSSS. She was also an excellent BIGSSS ambassador in the wider community, especially through her research stays at the World Bank Group and American University in Washington D.C. and the United Nations Development Program and Manhattan College in New York City.

ELLE HARRIS & ADRIEN DONNEAUD MUSICAL INTERLUDE

Not being people to give up on a great opportunity for a pun, Adrien and Elle formed their very own “BIGSSS-band” for this ceremony. On the side of their PhD projects (or perhaps the other way around), both are active musicians in both Bremen and further afield. Trained classically, Elle has played throughout her life in orchestras, smaller ensembles, bands and in other projects. For his part, Adrien made the decision to not pursue a music career in Mexico in his youth, opting to become a Free Mover instead. He has nevertheless continued to busk and play professional and semi-professional concerts across the world. In Bremen, Adrien can often be seen brightening up the streets with his guitar and voice, and Elle will sing in the HFK Kammer Chor this semester. They are really happy to be playing today and hope for a musical future in BIGSSS!

Adrien und Elle, die keine Gelegenheit für ein Wortspiel auslassen würden, gründeten eigens für diese Zeremonie ihre ganz persönliche „BIGSSS-BAND“. Neben den Promotionsprojekten sind beide aktive MusikerInnen in Bremen und darüber hinaus. Elle hat mit klassischer Ausbildung ihr ganzes Leben lang in Orchestern, kleineren Ensembles, Bands und anderen Musikprojekten gespielt. Adrien entschied sich in seiner Jugend gegen eine Musikkarriere in Mexiko und beschloss stattdessen, ein Free Mover zu werden. Nichtsdestotrotz spielt er weiterhin Straßenmusik und gibt überall kleine und größere Konzerte. In Bremen ist Adrien oft zu sehen, wie er mit Gitarre und Stimme die Straßen zum Klingen bringt, und Elle singt in diesem Semester im HFK Kammerchor. Beide sind glücklich, heute spielen zu können und hoffen auf eine musikalische Zukunft in der BIGSSS!
